

Innovative medical image sharing vendor Vaultara announces new partnership with Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare

Excelsior, MN (Oct. 15, 2015) Today, Vaultara, creators of a self-hosted, image sharing platform, announced a partnership with Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare, a California-based distributor of x-ray imaging equipment, services, and supplies.

“We are very excited and honored to partner with Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare as one of our preferred distributors,” said Vaultara managing partner, John Klinck. “We are confident that their customers will respond favorably to the introduction of our medical image sharing solution.”

Vaultara extends its leadership and market coverage through strong relationships with industry-leading solution providers, system integrators, and resellers around the world. Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare will be a vital partner in this mission.

“We are proud that Vaultara has chosen Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare as one of their partners. The medical image sharing functionality of Vaultara gives our family of customers the option to provide images to their patients and medical community in a highly secure manner. We look forward to our mutual success with Vaultara and our customers,” said Jeff Root, Vice President of Merry X-Ray.

This new partnership promises to increase exposure for Vaultara’s non-cloud-based software and further positions the company to streamline medical image sharing for healthcare facilities throughout the U.S. and beyond.

About Vaultara

Vaultara is an innovative software startup, seeking to transform the way healthcare facilities share medical images with one another and with patients. Founded in 2013 and headquartered in Excelsior, Minnesota, Vaultara’s focus is improving patient care by keeping sensitive health data secure and allowing organizations to exchange medical images effortlessly.

About Merry X-Ray/SourceOne Healthcare

Founded in 1958, Merry X-Ray Corporation (MXR) has met the challenges of keeping pace with rapidly changing medical imaging technology.
